

Serving the IAI: Committee Interest Solicitation for 2026–2027

One of the greatest strengths of the IAI is the involvement of its members. Across many disciplines, regions, and professional backgrounds, members contribute their time, expertise, perspectives, and ideas to help move the Association and profession forward together.

As part of transition planning for the upcoming administrative year, we would like to begin gathering expressions of interest from members who may wish to serve on IAI committees and working groups subject to presidential appointment during the 2026–2027 term.

Committee service provides an opportunity to:

- Contribute directly to initiatives impacting the Association and profession
- Collaborate with members from different forensic disciplines and regions
- Develop leadership experience within the IAI
- Help advance projects related to education, outreach, policy, member engagement, and organizational operations
- Support continued progress across the Association through shared participation and service

The IAI's continued success depends on engagement from members throughout the organization. Experienced members provide continuity, mentorship, and institutional knowledge, while newer members bring fresh perspectives, ideas, and energy. Both are essential to maintaining a strong and forward-looking Association.

Members from all disciplines, regions, and experience levels are encouraged to express interest. Prior committee experience is valuable, but it is not required for many assignments.

To assist with organization and review of submissions, members interested in potential committee service are asked to submit an email containing the following information:

- Full name
- Discipline(s)
- Current employer/position
- IAI membership status and years of membership
- Prior IAI, division, or professional organization involvement
- Committees or areas of interest
- Relevant experience or skills

- Brief statement regarding why you are interested in serving

While appointments for the upcoming term will not be finalized until October 1, early expressions of interest will assist with planning and committee development should transition activities move forward following the conference.

The IAI continues to grow through the involvement of members willing to contribute their time and expertise in support of the profession and the Association. We appreciate the willingness of members to become involved and help ensure we continue advancing together as one organization representing many disciplines.
